Criteria for Enrollment

Intake criteria are developed in collaboration with the referring school district. Students referred are those who exhibit difficulties in the public school setting due to a variety of reasons, including but not limited to emotional support needs, disruptive behavior, and truancy concerns. Upon referral, an intake meeting will be held with the student, their family, and any support services in place for the student. Other participants include Classroom Teacher(s), School Based Mental Health Therapist, and Administrative Staff. A decision will be made regarding enrollment at the conclusion of the meeting and communicated with the home district and family if the student is a good fit for the program. Student success relies heavily on a collaborative effort of the team, including family cooperation and input. Both regular and special education students are accepted.

Adelphoi Education offers a collaborative and therapeutic environment in which comprehensive, personalized plans address students' unique needs.

Adelphoi Education Services proudly operates seven academic locations across Southwestern Pennsylvania, which are licensed under PDE as Private Academic Schools. The schools provide an academic and therapeutic setting for students from surrounding public school districts who would benefit from a more structured and supportive learning environment. This supportive learning environment is responsive to behavioral and emotional factors that impede students' academic success. Additionally, the school provides treatment to students who have been identified as needing emotional support services or who have experienced trauma that is making it difficult for the student to cope with daily school functions. The goal of treatment is to help students replace negative coping skills with pro-social and more effective behavior so they can return to a less restrictive environment.

Emotional Support

The Emotional Support Program is a temporary placement to assist students in returning successfully to their home school. This program provides on-site therapy services by a Licensed Mental Health professional on staff. In conjunction with the reasons for referral and the student's Individual Education Plan, the therapist utilizes the DSM-5 assessments to help create the individual treatment plan and tailor the identified student's treatment needs. Utilizing the lens of the Trauma Based Model for treatment, typical interventions include but are not limited to: Cognitive Behavioral Therapy, Dialectical Behavioral Therapy, stress reduction, motivational interviewing, social skills development, and self-awareness/self-confidence building. Engagement with families and other service providers is an essential component to therapeutic services as well.
